

H10 LETY U PÍSKU (CZ)

The "Gypsy" camp at Lety u Písku in Bohemia, now in the Czech Republic, was built in 1940 as a prison and labour camp for "anti-social elements". It was designed to hold 600 prisoners, but after it became a "Gypsy" camp in August 1942 it held 1,392 men, women and children; 326 of them died there. Most of the inmates were deported to Auschwitz in 1943 and 1944.

1910

1951

1943

The genocide committed against European Roma and Sinti during the National Socialist era

💡 Did you know

... that for many years there was a pig farm on the site of the former "gypsy camp" and that Roma activists had been calling for its closure since 1994?

... that 30 years later, in May 2024, a memorial museum was opened to commemorate the genocide of the Roma and Sinti in the Czech Republic?

📝 Your task

Visit the official website of the Lety u Písku Memorial to find out more about how the memorial and museum came to be. Name three important events between 1994 and 2024 that led to the construction of the memorial and museum.

📷 About the photo

A 1943 drawing showing the layout of the labour camp and later "Gypsy" camp at Lety u Písku. State Administration Archives, Prague, Czech Republic

<https://www.romasintigenocide.eu/en/h>

www.romasintigenocide.eu